Thinking Out Loud

G. W. L.

With the arrest of the two Newman brothers, an exceptionally brutal murder is probably on its way to solution. The sheriff and his deputies deserve credit for the termination of the nation-wide man-hunt. Active and thorough dissemination of their pictures and descriptions plus continued effort on the sheriff's part resulted in the capture of the men.

Merely because it has been discovered that an American has been selling United States naval secrets to a Japanese officer, is no reason for this country to become excited, and utter threats of war. Espionage has been going on since the origin of nations, and no doubt will continue. Let not the jingoist seize on this incident to mutter threats of the "Yellow Peril," etc. Those concerned in the affair will be properly punished, and the affair will be closed.

The Democrats are considering the abrogation of the hundred-year-old convention rule, requiring a two-thirds majority to nominate Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President. However this will not be accomplished without sharp opposition from many good Democrats. With the fight to kill the old rule, comes remembrance of the Democratic Convention of 1912, when Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the presidency, after days of balloting. If the two-thirds rule had not been in effect, Champ Clark would have been nominated and the whole course of our history would perhaps have taken a different turning.

If Congress, assertedly, represents the will of the people, the question can reasonably be asked: "What does the Supreme Court represent?" For the past three years, the Supreme Court has called a halt to many projects of the present Administration. Whether the enactments of Congress, which the Supreme Court has seen fit to declare unconstitutional ,are wise or unwise is not the question. If these acts are the will of the people, as expressed through Congress, the Supreme Court should submit to that will.

The Constitution of the United States is over a century old, and times and circumstances have changed during that period. Isn't it reasonable to suppose that perhaps the Constitution might be modified to some extent with benefit? Nearly everyone realizes that the purpose and spirit of the Constitution must remain unchanged, but today it leaves something to be desired for this modern day and age.

Whether or not the present Administration made this country "class conscious" purposely, the fact remains that it has done just that. For over a hundred and fifty years the pioneer spirit and native ambition of the American citizen, kept all thought of class difference from his mind. Then came the campaign of 1931. To win that election the Democrats under the leadership of Franklin Roosevelt, resorted to a campaign of the most vicious sort —the undermining of American morale, already shaken by a hard economic depression. It is to that man, and some of his associates, that American "class consciousness" can be attributed.

OLD MINE RELICS SHOWN

Among the pioneer relics on exhibit in the windows of the Nugget office are several hand made mine tools, property of the late John Richards of Nevada state, who first mined in Virginia City and came to Grass Valley when quartz gold was first found and the shaft was being started on the old North Star mine. The miners candle, also owned by Mr. Richards, is now obsolete, the long tine extending beyond the candle ring was used to stick into the rock in order to see in underground workings.

John Pianezzi, who has been employed with the 16-to-1 Mine at Alleghany a year, stopped over in Nevada City his home town, for a few hours yesterday to visit friends. He left on the afternoon bus enroute to old Mexico where is going to be superintendent of a big plant for the Portland Cement Company. Mr. Pianezzi spent several years in South America in the silver and gold mines, returning home about two years ago.

STATE CREWS FIGHT FIRES

Fire of undetermined origin sprang up in Deer Creek about six miles west of Nevada City at 2:17 yesterday afternoon and dense clouds of smoke indicated it was making rapid progress in heavy grass and brush north of Deer Creek. Latest reports it was burning toward Kohler Hill.

Another state fire started at about 1:30 yesterday afternoon, two miles east of Osborne Hill, which is located between five and six miles southeast of Grass Valley, and was still burning as the paper goes to press.

Both are state fires and State Ranger William F. Sharp went out with his crew to direct operations on both fires.

ROAD CLEARED TO OPEN PARK IN MENDOCINO

Thirty more men have been requested of WPA authorities to reinforce the crew of 70 now clearing the right of way for the road over which the public will reach Mendocino Woodlands, California's new 5,000 acre recreation area in Mendocino County, Lawrence C. Merriam, of the National Park Service, today informed officials of the Resettlement Administration.

Resettlement on more favorable agricultural locations off the park area, of the 11 families who have been residing there, is now in its final stages, according to officials of the Resettlement Administration. Most of the families to be resettled have made their selections of new homes in areas approved by the Administration's soil experts in accordance with scientific land usage, and financial arrangements are now being concluded.

Road construction to the vacation area has reached the most difficult stage on the four and a half mile section through rugged country.

The road will proceed over ground now covered with sturdy second growth redwood. dense underbrush and many great stumps. These stumps of trees, some of which were more than a thousand years old, were left by the loggers of the last century and require great effort to clear them out of the path of the road workers.

Despite difficulties encountered, however, William H. Gibbs of the National Park Service, project manager for Mendocino Woodlands, who is a forestry graduate of the University of California, states the new road will be constructed within five months. Redwood culverts are being installed for drainage.

It is not contemplated for the present, that the total number of workmen on the entire Mendocino Woodlands Project—almost 400—shall be considerably increased, according to Mr. Merriam, but automatic depletion of the working crew through the payment of the soldiers bonus has made it necessary to obtain men to fill their places, and to augment the forces constructing the new road.

The completed project of Mendocino Woodlands, 150 miles north of San Francisco and near the coast city of Mendocino, will be ready for public use next summer.

Sanctuary for the free and unhindered growth of the historic redwoods, fully protected by modern forestry methods, and hunting, hiking, riding, swimming, fishing and camping recreation for man will be provided.

OLYMPIC SKI CHAMPION TALKS BEFORE ROTARY

The Nevada City Rotary Club had the pleasure of listening to Roy Mickelson former American ski jumping champion at their noon meeting on Thursday at the National hotel.

Mr. Mickelson gave an interesting account of the trip of the Olympic athletes from the United States to Germany and of his own experiences in his native Norway after the games in Germany.

He also spoke on the economic conditions in Europe and expressed the opinion that the United States has much the better of Europe in every way.

The meeting was the last one for Oscar Odegaard as president of the club, Frank Finnegan the newly elected president taking charge next week.

RESETTLEMENT PROJECT AIDS UTAH FAMILIES

BERKELEY, June 25.—Primitive living conditions in drought stricken areas of Utah will be corrected by a Resettlement Administration project which calls for the relocation of 100 stranded families on individual farms where they will be able to earn their livelihood.

Jonathan Garst, Resettlement Administration director for Utah, Arizona, California and Nevada, announced today $915,000 has been allocated for this purpose and for the purchase of an additional 4000 acres of submarginal land in Utah.

A land use adjustment study of one problem area disclosed that $320 is the average annual income of the farm families and that many of them are reduced to the use of tallow candles for household lighting. Children are obliged to go barefoot until cold weather sets in. Telephones and other modern necessities are practically unknown, the report declared.

Once a lively agricultural trading center serving 1200 families, the town of Widtsoe in John's Valley, one of the problem areas, has been abandoned. Only 50 families remain in the valley, which is 18 miles north of Bryce Canyon, National Park. A majority of the families were forced to go on relief.

Failure of the water supply, combined with the short frost free growing season, is blamed for the failure of agriculture in this region, the altitude of which is more than 7000 feet. One farmer reported he was able to obtain but one potato crop out of 12 plantings, due to the frost and lack of water.

Project plans call for the purchase of 100 farm units totalling about 6400 acres. These will be selected in various parts of the state where good land is available. Families resettled on the units will be supplied with the necessary farming equipment. They will purchase the land from the government on long term contracts.

Submarginal land purchased from the settlers by the government will be returned to grazing, the use to which it was put before the coming of the settlers.

NEED VOLUNTEERS TO WORK AT CAMP PAHATSI

Volunteer workers will be needed next Saturday afternoon and on Sunday at Boy Scout Camp Pahatsi according to information brought back by Leland Smith who put in some time there last week end. Any Nevada City person who is interested in the betterment of the camp is urged to make an effort to go Saturday or Sunday. It has been suggested that transportation costs might be saved if full carloads were taken rather than each person taking his own automobile.

It is requested that any one able and willing to make the trip, either with or without an automobile, contact H. A. Curnow, chairman of the Nevada City District Committee, so that arrangements for the trip may be made.

Many have signified their intention of going from other cities and it is hoped that a good representation will be able to go from Nevada City. The main work will be the start of construction of concrete piers in the lake. No technical knowledge of concrete work will be necessary, the main things needed will be willing hands. The camp is now open, the road is in good shape and this provides a chance for a picnic outing combined with an opportunity to do a good turn.

WHISKERETTES INVITE ALL TO BOX SOCIAL

The Nevada City Whiskerettes are now working hard for their box social which takes place tonight at Armory Hall. A prize is being offered of $2 to the lady bringing the best box of lunch, and a prize of $1 to the gorl who composes the most delicious lunch. Mrs. Ruby Miller of the Lace House requests that all who are planning to bring lunches to the affair, phone her so that she can lay plans accordingly.

The merchants of Nevada City have been very generous in their cooperation in this affair. The Smith Package Grocery, Penrose and Son, Purity, C. M. Hing, Jackson's Grocery, Safeway, Plaza Grocery and Superior Grocery have made it possible for the committee to serve free lemonade to the youngsters by donations of sugar, lemons, etc. The three drug stores, Nevada City. Dickerman's and Harris, have donated the paper cups for serving it.

The following merchants have donated orders for goods, etc., which will be given away as door prizes.

Keystone Market, Nevada Grill, The Bargain Spot, Vogue Cleaners, Bolton's Five and Ten, Twin City Clothing Company, Shamrock Cafe, Young's Barber Shop, Colley's, The Lace House, Nevada City Bottling Works, Bret Harte Cigar Store, Boston Mercantile, Bottle Shop, Forest B. MAN HELD ON CHARGE OF DELINQUENCY TO MINOR

On information from the sheriff's office S. J. Trimbell of Grass Valley was arrested by Highway Patrol at Truckee and returned here on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Trimbell also used the alias of Mike Johnson.

The complaint charging Trimbell, was sworn to by Mrs. Mildred Ratcliffe, of Chicago Park, who alleged that Trimbell had engaged to employ her 14-year-old daughter, to take care of his baby using the name of Mike Johnson, Mrs. Ratcliffe allowed her daughter to go with Trimbell, but became suspicious, and on investigation found the address he gave was non-existent. She then called Sheriff Tobiassen and swore to a complaint for his arrest. Trimbell is now held at the county jail, in lieu of $500 bail.

BUREAU OF MINES DEDICATES NEW ALABAMA BLDG.

The new building of the Southern Exueriment Station of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, on the grounds of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala. was dedicated on May 26, the ceremonies being held in connection with the May meeting of the Southeast Section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. H. E. Salmon, President of the Alabama Coals, Inc., and Chairman of the Southeast Section, American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, presided. Addresses were given by Dr. George H. Denny, President, University of Alabama; Dr. John W. Finch, Director, U. S. Bureau of Mines; and Milton H. Fies, Vice President, DeBardeleben Coal Corp.

The new building was constructed and equipped as the result of an allotment of $200,000 made on September 26, 1934, by the Public Works Administration. The University of Alabama donated to the Federal government a site of approximately 2 1-2 acres for the building. The new building is 50 feet wide and 159 feet long, 2 stories in height, with 20,854 square feet of floor space. Since its establishment in 1921 the Southern Experiment Station has occupied space in the buildings of the University.

IMPROVING ORE PROCESSES

The work of the Southern Experiment Station, which functions under a cooperative agreement with the University of Alabama, has been devoted mainly to studies of methods and means for improving the processes whereby ores and mineral products are prepared for commercial utilization and to investigations of ore mining methods. The coal and ore preparation studies have dealt with coal and metallic and non-metallic ores of the Southeastern States, including iron ore, clay for mineral fillers, bauxite, phosphate, rock, graphite, Southern gold ores, barite, and kyanite. Reports have been published giving the significant results of these investigations. There is a large variety of metallic and nonmetallic ores in the Southeastern States served by the Southern Experiment Station and the majority of these ores are of the low-grade type, presenting difficult problems in their preparation for successful and profitable commercial use. The new building makes available physical facilities which should aid greatly in solving some of these problems.

The ground floor of the new building is equipped with modern ore-dressing and coal-washing laboratories. Equipment in the ore-dressing laboratory includes a small concentrating table, a small constriction plate classifier, a rod mill, a pebble mill for wet grinding, a high intensity magnetic separator, and a small ore jig. In the grinding room are dry crushers and pulverizers for use on ores.

The coal washing laboratory is equipped with float-and-sing tanks for making washability studies on large samples of run-of-mine coal, a semi-commercial size wet-washing table and an experimental jig of the Baum type in which the jigging action is obtained by use of compressed air instead of a mechanical plunger.

HONOR MURDER SUSPECTS TO BE EXTRADITED

With the word that Monte and Merritt Newman had been arrested in a Leadville, Colorado, mining camp, Sheriff C. J. Tobiassen and under sheriff W. D. Woods left last night from Colfax to return the two men suspected of the brutal slaying of Christian Meyer, on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway January 12 of this year.

The advices from Sheriff Charles Calvert at Leadville are that the fugitives offered no resistance when arrested. The arrest followed a tip forwarded to the Colorado officer by the local sheriff's office, which had traced the two men through southern California and Arizona to Leadville. They were using assumed names.

The shooting took place when Meyers had attempted to save his finance, Miss Gwendolyn Coats from an attack, which climaxed a hold up, while the couple were sitting in a stalled car on the highway two miles above Nevada City. Miss Coats stated that the two masked men did not want money, but dragged her from Meyer's car at the point of a gun Meyers attempted to grasp the gun, and was shot in the struggle. Meyers died shortly after he was shot.

Word received by Sheriff Tobiassen from Charles Calvert, Leadville sheriff, indicates that the two men admitted their identity. They were working at the Molybdenum Mine under the assumed names of Frank Walden and Art Crocker. Merritt Newman had dyed his hair.

District Attorney Vernon Stoll went to Sacramento to get extradition papers for the men, although they had indicated that they would waive extradition proceedings.

REV. WASHBURN TO LEAVE ON TRIP TO CANADA

Rev. Charles F. Washburn and Mrs. Washburn will leave by motor on the morning of Wednesday, June 29, to drive to London, Ontario, Canada, to visit Mrs. Washburn's mother and brother. They will visit other relatives in Ontario. On the return journey they intend to bring Mrs. Washburn's mother with them and visit in a former parish, St. John's, Michigan.

Rev. Washburn will preach in Trinitl church in Nevada City at the usual 11 a. m. service on Sunday and during July his place will be filled by Carl Tamblyn.

Mrs. Russell B. Farley of this city had as recent guests her son, Jack Cooper, and chums, Jack Harris and Jack Renatti all of Sacramento.

Mr. George R. Carter received a letter Wednesday from his brother, Will Carter and family, who left Nevada City several days ago for the Philippine Islands, had arrived in Honolulu and were having a fine trip. He stated they would be in Manila on July Fourth.

The furnace and mill room of this floor is adapted to milling experiments on a pilot plant scale as well as metallurgical experiments of the leaching and smelting type.

On the second floor is the main chemical laboratory in which all general analytical work is done.

RECOVERY OF GOLD

The assay room is fully equipped for assaying precious metal ores. Although precious metal ores of the Southeasten States have been thought of as relatively unimportant in the past, the recent increased value of gold in relation to surrency and to commodities has revived interest in some of the gold ores of the Southern States. The recovery of gold from these ores presents many problems that might be solved at least partially by further investigative work.

The float-and-sink laboratory is used for fractionating ores and nine-14-mesh coal by means of heavy solutions. This fractionation process is the first step in stpdying the application of beneficiation of concentration processes to the preparation of commercially acceptable mineral products.

Over 150 representatives of Southern mining an metallurgical interests attended the dedication ceremonies.

Jim Jones lives out in the country, twenty miles from his office, and drives to work daily. The drive takes place largely on a modern highway, with the last few miles confined to busy streets.

The drive can be made safely in about thirty five minutes. But Jim would feel ashamed of his record if he ever took that long. So, by "stepping on her" hard, he manages to make it in twenty-five minutes, and sometimes less. The other day, in fact, he did it in twenty two minutes—a saving of thirteen minutes over the time taken by more conservative pilots.

That saving of time is a great boon to Jim. It permits him to spend ten or fifteen minutes talking about golf to the boys at the cigar stand, or reading the funny papers. And the day he made his record he spent the saved time, plus quite a few minutes more, boasting about it.

Of course, Jim has to weave in and out of traffic occasionally, cursing the slowpokes who move along at a sedate forty five. And sometimes he has to steal a right of way. Now and then he misses a crash by an inch, and after the first flush of nervousness passes, he chuckles to himself about what a good driver he is. Once he did have a minor accident, but the insurance company paid for that.

There are a good many thousand Jim Joneses driving cars in this country. They go on for years with nothing happening to them—and then the inevitable occurs.

Speed And The Future

A streamlined streak of light steel and aluminum racing across California and out over the old Overland Trail, where once lumbered the colorfully cumbersome covered wagons—a swift zephyr on wheels, sliding lightning fast along rails where once chugged, laboriously, the old iron horse.

Ghosts of the pioneers who first blazed that historic trail in months-long journeys to the Pacific must have gasped last Sunday. California's new streamliner, the "City of San Francisco," was off on its first land flight to Chicago—to arrive in less than forty hours!

With the coming of 110-mile-an-hour speed on the rails as a regular, scheduled thing, we are witnessing the beginning of a new era in transportation. There is greater contrast between this sleek speedster and the awkward steam dinosaurs still in use, than there was between the stage coach and the iron horse that ended its reign decades ago.

What would the pioneers have thought about all this air-conditioned plush luxury in which men can now travel, noiselessly except for radio music; taking along private bedrooms and a kitchen, for all the world as though in a hotel catapulting across the country? Not much, we fear. They'd have thought we'd grown soft.

But if slow ruggedness was the first requirement in their age, in ours comfortable speed is the thing. We've passed many milestones such as this first "flight" of the "City of San Francisco." We'll pass many more. It takes a fertile imagination even to guess what might come next.

CAMP PAHATSI SCOUTS BUSY OVER WEEK END

The next week end promises to be a busy one at Camp Pahatsi according to Leland Smith, local camp chairman. He says each district has been asked to get three or more men to help in the construction of a permanent concrete pile dock in Kilborn Lake, to replace the old delapidated swimming float which could no longer be used with absolute safety, without considerable repair. It is hoped to secure enough men who can help Saturday as well as Sunday. Materials will be taken up Friday for the nine pile, 12x16 structure which will be placed about 125 feet from shore.

This was one of the projects for camp improvement discussed at the executive board meeting held at Kilborn Lake last Sunday and attended by between 30 and 40. Other projects discussed and authorized after the completion of the swimming dock, were a concrete floor for the boys latrine and a wash porch extension necessary to give increased capacity. It is hoped to drill a well in this extension in order to have running water at winter camps and cooler water in the summer.

Tents for the campers will be relocated. New tables and benches have been built for the mess hall. Several scouts went up as an additional work party, Wednesday, to clean up and prepare camp, which opens Sunday July 5.

Mr. Joseph Elmer Northey, a Nevada City boy, who resides at Roseville and who is a fireman on the S P. railroad, left Monday with a friend, as delegates to the Firemen's convention in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Miss Helen Provine, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sauvee of Nevada City, had her tonsils removed at Jones Memorial hospital in Grass Valley Tuesday, by Dr. Carl P. Jones. She is getting along nicely at the home of her aunt and uncle in Nevada City.

G. O. P. Platform: Restore Liberty!

Strikes at Dictatorship of New Deal; Landon's Position Clear.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Almost a complete reassertion of the Constitution of the United States, in the face of three long years of attack upon it by the New Deal, was the platform adopted by the Republican National convention here. To its restatement of the American principles of a national liberty based upon personal liberty was added the vigor of a telegram from Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas, making clear his interpretation of certain important planks as the unanimously selected nominee of the party for the Presidency.

The platform roundly condemned the New Deal for the President's usurpation of the powers of congress; flaunting the Supreme court; violation of citizens' liberties; countenancing dangerous monopoly; passing laws contrary to the Constitution; violation of the Bill of Rights, and repudiating the sacred obligations and traditions of the nation. It deplored federal waste and use of public funds to political ends; unfair investigations; intimidation of industry; coercion of voters; appeals to class prejudice and destruction of public morale.

A summary of the platform follows:

Constitutional Government and Free Enterprise

We pledge ourselves:

1. To maintain the American system of Constitutional and local self government, and to resist all attempts to impair the authority of the Supreme court of the United States, the final protector of the rights of our citizens against the arbitrary encroachments of the legislative and executive branches of government.

2. To preserve the American system of free enterprise, private competition, and equality of opportunity.

Re-Employment.

The only permanent solution of the unemployment problem is the absorption of the unemployed by industry and agriculture. (To this end, the platform advocated abandonment of all New Deal restrictive, competitive and coercive policies—especially those which restrict production.)

Relief.

To end confusion, partisanship, waste and incompetence, we pledge:

1. The return of responsibility for relief administration to non-political local agencies familiar with community problems.

2. Federal grants-in-aid to the states and territories while the need exists, upon compliance with these conditions: (a) a fair proportion of the total relief burden to be provided from the revenues of states and local governments; (b) all engaged in relief administration to be selected on the basis of merit and fitness; (c) adequate provision to be made for the encouragement of those persons who are trying to become self-supporting.

3. Undertaking of federal public works only on their merits and separate from the administration of relief.

4. A prompt determination of the facts concerning relief and unemployment.

Security.

We propose a system of old age security, based upon the following principles:

1. Pay-as-you-go.

2. Every American citizen over sixty-five should receive the supplementary payment necessary to provide a minimum income sufficient to protect him or her from want.

3. Each state and territory, upon complying with simple and general minimum standards, should receive from the federal government a graduated contribution in proportion to its own, up to a fixed maximum.

4. To make this program consistent with sound fiscal policy the federal revenues for this purpose must be provided from the proceeds of a direct tax widely distributed. All will be benefited and all should contribute.

We propose to encourage adoption by the states and territories of honest and practical measures for meeting the problems of unemployment insurance.

Labor.

We pledge ourselves to:

Protect the right of labor to organize and to bargain collectively through representatives of its own choosing without interference from any source.

Prevent governmental job holders from exercising autocratic powers over labor.

Support the adoption of state laws and interstate compacts to abolish sweatshops and child labor, and to protect women and children with respect to maximum hours, minimum wages and working conditions. We believe that this can be done within the Constitution as it now stands.

Agriculture.

Following the wreck of the restrictive and coercive AAA, the New Deal administration has taken to itself the principles of the Republican policy of soil conservation and land retirement. This action opens the way for a non-political and permanent solution. Such a solution cannot be had under a New Deal administration which misuses the program to serve partisan ends, to promote scarcity and to limit by coercive methods the farmer's control over his own farm.

Our paramount object is to protect and foster the family type of farm, traditional in American life, and to

PRIZE OFFERED FOR BEST HOME UNDER $5,000

What is the best—most practical most livable, house which can be built in Northern California at a cost of $5000 or less?

Seeking answer to this question, the district office of the Federal Housing Administration today announced a "California Homes $500 Cash Prize Competition" in which local architects, draftsmen, builders, and other home planners are invited to participate.

The purpose of the competition, it was explained, is to determine the popular trend in small homes construction and to picture types and costs of houses now being built here in the lower price levels.

Business and industrial institutions interested in home building are said to have contributed $500 to be awarded in prizes.

A prize of $250 will be awarded for the winning house costing $3000 or less. A similar amount will go to the designer of the winning house which can be built at a cost of $3000 to $5000.

CLOSE JULY 15TH

Either photographs of houses already constructed, or drawings of houses contemplated, may be submitted, together with floor plans and a data sheet giving details of construction. The contest closes July 15.

Data sheets, with complete information and instructions, may be obtained from C. A. West, assistant to the director, Federal Housing Administration, 433 California street, San Francisco.

Final awards will be made by a committee of ten, composed of prominent architects, builders, housewives, educators and others," West declared. "The winning houses will be selected for their livability, practicability, sensibility of design, and full value in a home for the purchaser.

NEED FOR HOMES

"The Federal Housing Administration, which insures home loans made by private lending institutions on a basis of 80 per cent of the value, payable in monthly installments over periods as long as 20 years, finds an urgent and increasing demand for homes in the lower price brackets. It was with the hope of compiling a comprehensive album of such homes, designed especially for Northern California construction, that this cash prize competition was instigated."

William and Charles Jeffery, sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Jeffery of Walrath Avenue, left Monday on a month's vacation. They will go through Oregon, Washington and on to Vancouver, B. C., and then back by Montana, Utah, and Idaho.

Mrs. Catherine Celio is home from a few days spent in San Jose with relatives. She was present for closing of San Jose state college in which school her son, Gove, Jr., is a student. She was accompanied home by her son and niece, Gove Jr., and Miss Carolyn Anderson.

ELVERTA PARK IS RECREATION CENTER

One of the finest places of recreation for the entire family is Elverta Park, one mile past the town of Rio Linda, on the Rio Linda Blvd., north west of North Sacramento. Elverta Park consists of a large out-door swimming tank, which is fed by underground artesian water, making it clear, sparkling and delightfully cool for the bathers. The grounds are well adapted for family picnics, where large barbecue pits are provided for the public. Here you may while away the hours of pleasure with a few hands of bridge or friendly gossip over the picnic lunch.

In connection with the park is a large new springy dance pavillion where everyone is sure to find pleasure amid congenial surroundings that go to make your visit here a pleasant and happy one for the entire family's outing at moderate cost.

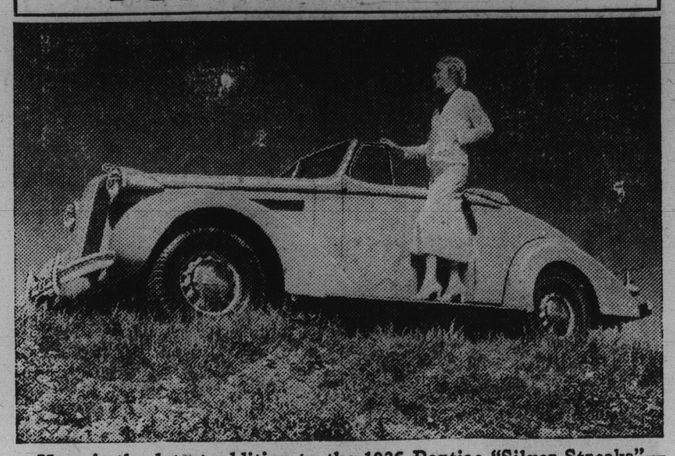
U. S. Imports Exceed Exports for First Time

Washington.—Since January, America has been buying more goods and products from abroad than it has sold in foreign countries, according to estimates of experts in the United States department of commerce.

Imports, encouraged by the free trade treaties of the administration, have increased each year since 1933, until they now exceed the nation's exports. Imports for the first four months of 1936 totaled $781,000,000, greater by $12,414,000 than exports.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guenther, Jr., and son and daughter of Yreka will spend the week end in Nevada City with Mr. Guenther's parents. The children will remain for next week and their parents will return to spend July 4th in this city.

PONTIAC'S LATEST



Here is the latest addition to the 1936 Pontiac "Silver Streaks"—the Pontiac Master Six Cabriolet. With the top up this model becomes an all-weather car, but when it is snugly folded down behind the driver's compartment this Cabriolet epitomizes the spirit of youth and spring. Pontiac dealers locally have reported a substantial increase in the sales of this model.

V. F. W. PLANS RIP ROARING 4TH CONCESSION HERE

The Banner Mountain Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has made splendid progress so far with its decorations in the Armory Hall. A long rustic bar has been constructed in the lodge rooms, and the ball room is being decorated with flags and banners in the Fourth of July spirit.

Commencing at 8 o'clock on the evening of July 3rd, festivities will open with a grand ball for which music will be furnished by one of the best orchestras in the state, supplemented by a four piece jazz orchestra with string instruments and good entertainers.

Twenty (20) dancing girls from the bay region have been engaged to assist on the floor, so the bashful boys need not want for partners. Plenty of good entertainers and a dime dance during the day of the Fourth and Fifth. Fifty dollars $50, in cash prizes and a great variety of merchandise prizes to be given away during the festival.

Games of chance of every description from roulette on down, without restrictions, will be in order, so you can go as far as you like at your favorite pastime.

There will be a snake dance with live snakes, and a grand cock fight for the entertainment of visitors. The V. F. W. is planning a real "no holts barred" celebration of the Fourth. Members of other V. F. W. posts have been invited to join in the event with the local organization.

BOOK REVIEW

The Misses Laura B. and Elizabeth A. Everett of Regent Street, Berkeley, are receiving the congratulations of their friends upon the recent publication by Little, Brown, of their book The Arch of Experience, written in collaboration with their niece, Mrs. Margaret Everett Climo.

The readers of this paper may be interested to learn that the two Everett sisters were born at Birchville, while Mrs. Climo was born near Marysville. Mrs. Climo's mother, by the way, Mrs. Kate Fowler Everett, is a native of Sweetland.

Mrs. Climo is head of the English Department at the Oroville Union High School. Miss Laura B. Everett is a member of the English department at the Oakland Technical high school and Miss Elizabeth A. Everett teaches short-story writing at the Evening high school in Berkeley.

For the title of their textbook the authors chose from Tennyson's "Ulysses."

"All experience is an arch wheregleams that untraveled world,
whose margin fades
Forever and forever when I move".

Each chapter shows how some sort of experience may be used in English. There is a chapter called The Treasure Hunt in which the searcher is directed in his reading for comprehension and for pleasure.

Another chapter, Piloting an Airplane, includes rules for manuscript form, punctuation, and the use of capital letters. Other chapters are: Olympic Games and Other Vacations. Broadcasting, Building a Ship, Making a Car Run, Television, etc.

Compared with most textbooks, The Arch of Experience is like a thrilling Western story. It contains delectable bits of fiction, anecdotes, and poetry. The illustrations, by Ruth Taylor, are highly interesting and amusing.

This textbook is to be recommended especially to eachers of Americanism, also to foreigners seeking a cross-cut to the reading and writing of English.

Willard E. Givens, Superintendent of Schools in Oakland, says in his forword to The Arch of Experience:

"Students who use it will improve their understanding of English and will be charmed with its impelling interest and quality.

"MY DAY"—BY MICKEY MOUSE

Washington. — Humanization of the rodents of the field seems to have been the pleasant task of some of the administration's' boondoggling scientists. This is from "Uncle Sam's Diary," a magazine for federal employees:

"Work habits of field mice have been checked by federal scientists: 6 a. m., reveille; breakfast hunting, until 7:30 a. m.; rest period until 11 a. m.; lunch, 1 p. m.; general nosing about until 2 p. m.; dinner, 4:30 p. m.; half hour for napping, and then to bed at 5 p. m."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Farmer of Robinson Heights south of Nevada City, have as week end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Johnson of Berkeley. Mr. Johnson has charge of the big swimming pool at U. C. Berkeley.

"Private Property—No Trespassing" signs for sale at the Nugget Office.

of San Francisco, has written in answer to an invitation to attend the alumni meeting in Nevada City July Fourth, that in his Fourth plans he will give Nevada City preference.

Pauline Rozynski to Wed William Mullis

Through the issuing of invitations this week Mrs. Pearl Rozynski of Willow Valley announces the coming marriage of her daughter, Miss Pauline Marie Rozynski to William Earl Mullis of Nevada City. The ceremony will take place at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, July Fourth, at the home of the groom's parents on Boulder street.

Both graduated from the Nevada City high school with the class of 1936 and are highly esteemed by all who know them. They will spend a honeymoon in San Francisco and Santa Cruz returning to Nevada City to reside. The well wishes of the entire community is extended to the young people for happiness and success.

Weddings of Four Couples "Solemnized"

The lovely gardens of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison, south of Nevada City, was the scene of a quadruple mock-wedding Friday, June 19. The June wedding groups were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Ed LaTour, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Schance, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Rickard, all of whom have been married during the past two years, in order given.

Tuesday night's ceremony was turned about, the couples were each given a box, and the ladies instructed to dress the gentlemen with all they found in the boxes. Each box contained "veils" of the lace curtain vintage," lengths of streamers and the bridal bouquets of sweetpeas. When the blushing grooms were ready Mr. Garrison tolled an old rusty cowbell, and the couples took their places before an improvised "altar." Walter Butz, Jr., carried the four masculine size wedding rings (a la portier) and Mrs. Garrison officiated.

The best dressed groom was presented with a large bouquet, determined by popular applause. All four couples were presented with a delicious, large, wedding cake, decorated by Mr. Jack Bennett with the names of each couple.

Following the ceremony a weinie roast and hot coffee was served. Forty one friends were present for the delightful time. Mr. and Mrs. John Lawyer and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison were hosts of the evening.

Sunday School Class Enjoys Outing

Rev. Charles F. Washburn and group of eleven Grass Valley girls of the Sunday school class of Mrs. Little, and several adults enjoyed a happy outing on Emerald Bay, Lake Tahoe Wednesday. A delicious lunch swimming, boating and an hour of fishing completed a delightful day. In fishing the honors fell to Dr. V. V. Rood who caught a five pound silverside trout. Among the adults attending were Dr. and Mrs. V. V. Rood, Mrs. Gertrude Heathers and mother, Mrs. Charles Plumtree, Mrs. Little, Mrs. Sparks and Miss Ruth Botting.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Watters of Gold Flat Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Watters of Gold Flat were given a surprise party Tuesday evening on the 25th or Silver anniversary of their wedding. Seventy members of the Thursday Club of Gold Flat and Tuesday Club of Nevada City prepared a potluck supper and under the guise of a Father's Night visit from friends, completely surprised Mr. and Mrs. Watters.

Mr. and Mrs. Watters were married in the home of Mrs. Watters' mother, Mrs. Clemo of Gold Flat, and have resided in their home nearby ever since. The club presented Mr. and Mrs. Watters with a set of silver.

Mrs. Farley Attends Calneva Opening

Mrs. Russell B. Farley of this city was among the guests of Mr. Chester Smith, chief of liquor control of Marysville, who motored to the opening on Saturday night of Calneva on the California-Nevada state line near Lake Tahoe. Between 1500 and 2000 people were present. The big lodge is built on a huge rock, a natural cold stream of water gushes out of the rock and runs by the dance floor. A fireplace has been cut into the rock for the big room also. The immense floor was too crowded for comfortable dancing and a hum of roulette wheels and all sorts of gambling devices were heard above the din of music and voices.

There were many people present from the bay district. Reno, and surrounding cities. The gay throng dressed in gorgeous clothes and glowing brilliant jeyelry made a never-to-be-forgotten scene.

Mrs. Farley said she had the novel experience of sitting with another couple on the state, line, she with partner in California and the other pair in Nevada, the line running through the building near the fireplace.

NEVADA COUNTY FARMERS WORK FARM PROGRAM

Nevada County farmers are now compiling information in order that they may fill out work sheets and qualify under the Agricultural Conservation program. They are being assisted by local committeemen, F. E. Gordon, Emergency Assistant in Agricultural Extension, Wayne Bishop, secretary of the Agricultural Conservation Association for Nevada Placer and Yuba counties and Miss Scott, in the Chamber of Commerce office in Grass Valley.

The work sheets, being prepared in connection with the establishment of soil depleting bases for farms in Nevada county, require the following information: (1) a detailed description of the location of the farm; (2) distribution of farm acreage according to the crops grown in 1936; (3) AAA contract information; and (4) the yield of the maior crops on the land.

"A farm's base acreage for any crop or crops," says Mr. Gordon, "is the amount of land ordinarily planted on the farm to that crop or crops.

"Under the Agricultural Conservation program, soil-depleting bases are to be established, first, to provide a definite standard to measure the extent of soil conservation and soil improvement on individual farms in 1936; and second, this standard will be used to determine the amount to be paid to the individual farmer who cooperates.

"The soil-depleting base for any farm will be the total acreage in soil-depleting crops on that farm in 1935, modified to take care of unusual situations."

NEVADA CITY CHILDREN APPEAR

Nevada City had two children appear on the Major Bowes matinee hour in Grass Valley Tuesday evening. They were Ada Peratti, daughter of Mrs. Rena Peratti, who gave a piano selection, and Erik Andersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Andersen, who sang a song. There were quite a number from Grass Valley, the Hungry Five, German band, being especially good. Two little tap dancers came all the way from Modesto to be on the program. All amateurs did well and were given praise.

Mrs. Russell B. Farley accompanied friends to Reno, Nevada, on Wednesday for a delightful trip, and visit.

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA NEWSPAPERS THANKED FOR EDUCATION HELP

Newspapers of Northern California have given education splendid support, according to J. R. Overturf retiring president of the Northern California Association. Overturf this week tendered his resignation, effective July 1, to Mrs. Portia F. Moss, secretary of the organization.

The resignation was prompted by Overturf's move to Palo Alto, where he becomes superintendent of the schools, after many years of service in Sacramento as deputy superintendent. He will be succeeded by Charles K. Price, superintendent of schools at Orland, who is vice president of the organization.

In his letter of resignation to Mrs. Moss, Overturf said in part:

"I hope we shall continue to have the splendid support of the newspapers of Northern California in behalf of education. The willingness and understanding of most of the papers in these northern counties have been most encouraging to me, as well as to all the school people of the northern section."

Overturf is widely recognized in California for his leadership both in curriculum and administration. He has served on the summer faculties of Stanford, Chico State College and San Jose State College in the past few years.

Charles K. Price, who assumes the leadership of the 2500 teachers belonging to the organization, will be in Portland, Oregon this week to attend the convention of the National Education Association, after which he will return to California to fill his office.

Mrs. Portia F. Moss, secretary of the association states the organization has grown steadily under Overturf's leadership.

AMERICAN LEGION PREPARES FORBIG HOLLYWOOD MEET

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.—Film stars will present a colored tableau depicting the birth of the American Legion, huge illuminated insignia of the organization will flash from the nearby hills, and a dirigible will tow a gigantic illuminated American flag overhead as spectacular features of the opening ceremony of the California American Legion Convention in the famed Hollywood Bowl the night of August 9.

State Commander Dan W. Emmett will preside at the opening memorial ceremony, with Homer Chailleaux, national Americanism chairman, bringing greetings from National Commander Ray Murphy. The opening ceremony is expected to draw a capacity crowd of 50,000 according to Bruce Merman, committee chairman.

Two spectacular parades and innumerable entertainment features will augment convention sessions. Early registrations have made it necessary to put a two-mile limit on the Legion parade the afternoon of August 10.

Tom Estabrook is honorary chairman for the 40 et 8, honorary legion play organization, which will stage their colorful box car parade the night of August 11. George Zaback, commander of Hollywood Post general chairman, and Louis J. Canepa, past Hollywood commander, are collaborating with State Commander Emmett and State Adjutant James K. Fisk on the elaborate convention plans.

Jim White who has been spending some time at his uncle's ranch on McCourtney road below Grass Valley, passed through Nevada City on Wednesday as one of the riders enroute to the summer range in the high mountains with a large herd of cattle.

NEVADA THEATRE SHOWS "SPLENDOR" SUNDAY

Friday night the Nevada Theatre will show "Desert Gold," a thrilling Western spectacle, which is said to really give those who see it plenty of genuine excitement. Saturday night a richly human romance of two young newlyweds who find out you don't have to have quintuplets to have baby trouble will be shown in the picture "The First Baby." Featuring Johnny Downs and Shirley Deance in the leading roles, this is the story of love, round by round, with "in-law" trouble balling things up and a little bundle from heaven helping the two youngsters find their way to happiness.

A new type of Vanishing American—the fabulously rich and socially prominent leaders of New York society—is immortalized by Rachel Crother's thrilling romantic drama "Splendor" which plays at the Nevada Theatre Sunday and Monday. Fifth Avenue, that glamorous thoroughfare which in recent years has watched the decay of great wealth and social leadership, is the background for "Splendor." Miriam Hopkins, Joel McRea, and Billie Burke have the leading roles.

BIG DANCE AT CAMPTONVILLE

Saturday night June 27th, Camptonville will hold a grand Whiskerino and Whiskerette dance. Splendid music and a floor show has been arranged for the occasion. Camptonville lies in a picturesque setting only 24 miles from Nevada City and as usual the old Camptonville hospitality will predominate to make everybody happy and to see to it that they all have a good time.

GOOD SERVICE COSTS NO MORE

A modern establishment—a trained, intelligent and courteous personnel — distinctive motor equipment and other evidences of progress and prosperity are NOT an indication that funeral service charges will be high. A successful concern can be built only by serving honestly and well, at prices that are fair and reasonable.

PIEDMONT RIDING INSTRUCTOR INJURED

Miss Dorothy Perkins, riding instructor at the Piedmont Camp on Lake Vera was severely injured in a fall from a horse, Wednesday. She was brought into Nevada City to Dr. Reed, and then removed to her home in Piedmont.

A large rattler was killed at the camp, by Robert Rhupert. The girl's class in nature study then dissected the reptile, in order to further their studies of snake anatomy.

The Piedmont girls are now planning to present Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream." Jean Logan, Mary Campbell and Tina Noyes will direct the play.

THREE BURGLARY ATTEMPTS MADE

Three burglary attempts were made in Nevada City early Tuesday morning, only one of which was successful. Some small change was stolen from Bolton's Racket Store, but the attempts at J. J. Jackson's and the Dollar Store were unsuccessful.

The burglars were evidently frightened away from Jackson's when their attempts to cut a hole in the door glass caused the whole pane to give way with a loud crash.

Deputy Sheriff A. T. Tobiassen heard the crash and hurried to find its cause, but did not catch the thieves, who evidently fled immediately at the sound of the breaking glass.

STATE GRANGE IN OPPOSITION TO SINGLE TAX

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—Proponents of the so-called "Sales Tax Repeal" or "Single Tax" amendment, to be voted on at the November general election, met a rebuff today at the hands of George Sehlmeyer, Master of the California State Grange. Sehlmeyer, reached at Lebanon, where he is attending a meeting of the Oregon State Grange, refuted recent statements that he is one of the sponsors of the "Single Tax" amendment.

"Current reports in the press," said Sehlmeyer, "that I am a 'leader in the movement for repeal of the state sales tax and substitution of the single tax' are definite and deliberate untruths, sponsored by the bauckers of the 'single tax' proposal.

"I am now, and always have been unalterably opposed to the 'single tax', or to any other tax which would place additional and unbearable burdens on agriculture.

"Few people are aware that 'sales tax repeal' is not the real question at stake in this matter. Rather, perennial sponsors of the completely discredited 'single tax' have seen here a chance to plant their pet theory in California craftily attaching it as a rider to a sales tax repeal proposal. The State Grange has not been an advocate of sales tax, but we must be unequivocally for it, if its repeal means substitution of a 'single tax' on land, a tax which would add over three hundred million dollars to the annual tax load now carried on land in California.

"Farmers are not theorists; they can't afford to be. And California farmers, who have fought an uphill battle for the past several years to secure the present measure of stability in their industry, will not be inclined at this point to relinquish those gains, merely to try out a theory which has failed in every spot on the globe where it has been attempted.

"Far from being a leader in the 'single tax' movement, I am a director of the California Association Against the Single Tax, which is organized to defeat the ill founded and completely discredited 'single tax,' whose only hope of success in California is in its flagrant misrepresentation as 'sales tax repeal'."

MAY GAS TAX OVER 3 MILLION

SACRAMENTO, June 25.—Continuing the steady increase which has prevailed for the past year, California's gasoline taxes for May will provide $3,677,425.18 according to an announcement made here today by Richard E. Collins, chairman of the State Board of Equalization.

Analyzing the assessments just completed by the board, Collins pointed out that the taxable gasoline for last month exceeded that of May 1935, by more than 3,700,000 gallons with the result that last month's tax will be $110,452.88 more than the corresponding tax of a year ago. This marked a gain of 3.1 per cent.

"Although it has been predicted in some quarters that the gain in gasoline distributions could not continue so long, there has been steady improvement in this business as established by tax returns, for the past seventeen months. Ever since December 1934, the figures for each month have shown an increase over those for the same month of the preceding year.

"Because they are based directly on the gallons sold, gasoline taxes are an unusually accurate barometer of business conditions. I think it can be concluded from these statistics that there has been a definite turn for the better."

Imports Displace 33 Million Acres

New Deal Aids Foreigners to Steal Home Market From U. S. Farmers.

Washington, D. C.—Imports of foreign farm products, aided by the Roosevelt crop reduction and free trade policies, displaced 33,436,336 acres of American farm land during the year 1935 alone, an analysis of the department of commerce reports over that year reveal. This is approximately one and one-half times the amount of land in cultivation in Iowa, a leading agricultural state.

This estimate is based upon the ten-year average yield of the acreage necessary to the production of the same crop in the United States. It is also estimated that the United States rural population denied the opportunity for self-support by the 1935 importations is 1,741,000 persons. This does not include the 1,000,000 southern share croppers and farm hands thrown out of work because of the administration's cotton curtailment program.

Pork Imports Leap Up.

Imports all down the line—grains, meats, hops, milk, butter, eggs, vegetable oils and their substitutes, lard substitutes, edible molasses and many others—have multiplied, in some cases fifty or 100 times, under the New Deal.

In the first four months of 1936 the United States consumed 10,151,102 pounds of foreign pork, almost seven times the volume imported in the first four months of last year, and more than twenty times the imports of two years ago. The rapid rise of pork imports was accompanied by a large increase in live hog imports. In the four months the United States received 5,186,576 pounds of live hogs, as compared with only 35,953 pounds in the corresponding period a year ago, and 2,800 pounds two years ago.

Canned Meat Imports Soar.

Hog raisers fear that these big imports will eventually cause a collapse of home markets similar to that which occurred in cattle, although production in this country is yet far below the requirements of the nation. American producers have lost many millions of dollars of trade to the foreign farmers as a result of the scarcity program adopted three years ago. In four months meat valued at $7,951,000 was brought in from other countries. April imports amounted to more than $2,000,000. Two years ago they were $350,000.

Canned meat imports rose to 34,807,453 pounds this year, compared with 25,613,601 a year ago and 9,718,137 two years ago.

Davis Shows Up New Farm Plan

Tries to Retract Views on Markets for U. S. Farm Products in Europe.

Newark, N. J.—Chester C. Davis, agricultural adjustment administrator of the New Deal, almost succeeded in covering up a statement by him which laid wide open the fallacy of the new soil erosion measure conjured up to take the place of the unconstitutional AAA. Almost—but not quite.

Davis' statement, which was issued from Berlin while he was on his six-weeks' agricultural survey of 11 European nations, claimed that there was little hope for a revived European market for American farm products. It was understood that administration forces attempted to recall it from newspapers to which it had been issued, but one, a daily in Newark, printed it and let the cat out of the bag.

For the Davis statement, it developed, was inimical to the reciprocal treaty policies of President Roosevelt and to the new erosion control program, in which much stress is placed upon the necessity of developing foreign markets for American farm products.

"All over Europe," read the suppressed statement, "there is bad news for the American farmer and exporter who hopes to regain the great market he enjoyed in this part of the world a decade ago.

"Under the rising surge of nationalism and the continued threat of war, with the possibility of food supplies choked off by blockade, the leading countries in western Europe are striving to become self-sufficient and, as far as possible, to produce their own foodstuffs . . .

"I am concerned with what these changes mean to the American farmer. We plowed up 50,000,000 acres to grow wheat and meat for Europe from 1914 to 1919. They will not be needed to the same extent for that purpose again.

"I see no sense wasting our soil resources and great national heritage of productive and fertile soil to produce for a market which we cannot have because of circumstances far beyond our control. Nearly every country we have visited has supplemented its tariffs by import quotas on some commodities. Some nations have put in effect rigid exchange-control systems which put the government in charge of every item of foreign trade. Germany is a notable example. Some countries have invoked outright embargoes."

Tugwell's Waste Goes On and On

Spends 278 Million; Houses Far Short of Program; Payroll Huge.

Washington.—When the District of Columbia court of appeals held that the President's transfer of relief funds to Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell's resettlement administration was unconstitutional, it did not save the hundreds of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money which have been spent by what one congressman has called "the most extragavant, the most unjustified and the most useless" of the New Deal alphabetical bureaus. Neither did it put a stop to future spending by the RA, for the decision will be appealed to higher courts.

Between May 1 of 1935 and March 23 of this year, Tugwell has received $278,347,171, of which $31,950,000, or nearly one dollar in every nine, has gone for "administrative" expense. Other expenditures: submarginal land purchases, $44,120,328; subsistence homesteads, $15,275,735; rural rehabilitation and resettlement, $124,279,046; direct relief, $16,169,354; suburban development, $31,000,000, and land development, $15,000,000.

Payroll Numbers 17,055.

What started out as only a handful of executives in the RA has swelled to a payroll of 17,055. The payroll for administering the various units in 27 Washington buildings alone is $25,062,085 a year. Sixteen executives are paid $7,000 to $9,000 annually; 41 from $6,000 to $7,000, and 55 from $5,000 to $6,000.

Professor Tugwell determines the amount of land which the RA will purchase and the use to which it shall be put. In less than a year he has placed under option 10,020,630 acres of land and has purchased 8,583,840 acres.

Houses Fail to Rise.

Tugwell has spent $278,347,171, but few houses, comparatively, have ever been completed. In most cases the lands on which they are built are too poor to raise crops profitably and few families are attracted to move in. Still fewer industries are being moved to the projects. Where houses have been completed, walls are often cracking and roofs leaking already. Tugwell's payroll for labor alone is $30,000 a day—enough to build ten houses a day—but less than ten houses a month are being completed.

In the South, in Minnesota and in other locations the RA has given the jobs up as hopeless and is attempting to peddle the projects to private corporations, at enormous loss to the public purse.

Story of Mission San Antonio de Padue

Lonely outpost of the Franciscan stations established by Fr. Junipero Serra, Mission San Antonio de Padua was founded far off what later became El Camino Real, "The Kings Highway," by the Presidente of the California Missions on July 14, 1771. It was the third of Junipero's missions, now twelfth on the Trail of the Padres.

Situated in a pleasant oak-covered valley in the Santa Lucia Mountains the site chosen by Fr. Serra was a spot where Gaspar de Portola and his expeditionary force had camped in September, 1769, on their way from San Diego in search of Monterey Bay.

In those first years of his missionary undertakings, the zeal of Fr. Serra knew no bounds, so that, having founded mission San Carlos Borromeo at what is now Carmel, he set out from Monterey with a squad of soldiers, some lower California neophytes and Fathers Miguel Pieras and Buenaventura Sitjar to locate a suitable place for his third mission.

Fr. Zephyrin Englehardt, mission historian, relates that Junipero and his little party stopped close by a river which Fr. Serra promptly named San Antonio and had his goods unpacked. The bells brought along were suspended from a live oak tree. The sight of them, says Fr Englehardt, aroused Fr. Serra's enthusiasm and he ran up to them, grasped the cords and rang them in a lively manner. Then he shouted.

"Hear, Oh Gentiles! Come! Oh come to the holy church of God! Come, Oh come, and receive the Faith of Christ"!

In amazement, Fr. Pieras cried out: "Why, Father, do you tire your self? This is not the spot on which the church is to stand, nor is there within hearing a single pagan soul. It is useless to ring the bells."

To which Fr. Serra replied: "O Father Miguel, let me give vent to my heart's desires; for I would that these bells were heard all over the world, or at least by all pagan people who live in this sierra."

The venerable padre's wish was fulfilled, at least in part, for a lone Indian, attracted by the sound of the bells, cautiously approached while Fr. Serra and his colleagues, having constructed, raised and blessed a large cross, were celebrating holy mass within a brushwood shelter wherein an altar had been placed. This on July 14, 1770, in honor of San Antonio, patron of the new mission, on the day dedicated to the seraphic Doctor, St. Benaventure.

Observing the hesitant savage, Fr. Serra was filled with joy and in his sermon said: "I trust in God and in the favor of San Antonio that this mission will become a great settlement of many Christians, because we see here what has not been observed in any of the other missions founded hitherto, that at the first holy mass the first fruit from paganism has been present. He will surely not fail to communicate to his tribesmen what he has seen."

FRIENDLY INDIANS

And, indeed, the lone Indian did not fail. Presented with colored glass beads, he hastened to his concealed fellows and soon many Indians came with gifts of wild seeds and acorns. They accepted the missionaries with great faith and confidence, so that fifteen days later Fr. Serra set forth highly pleased for Monterey, leaving Fathers Sitjar and Pieras to build with the aid of the soldiers and the friendly natives the Mission San Antonio de Padua.

At the sacrifice of space which could be devoted to details of the demoralization of Mission San Antonio under Mexican rule decades later, but which details would be a repitition of the mission stories preceding this one, it may be worth while here to relate a strange tale recounted by Fr. Palou, biographer of Fr. Serra. Fr. Palou wrote in 1773:

"Among the Indians baptized at San Antonio was a woman whom them named Agueda, so old, that to all appearances she must have been one hundred years of age. She came to the Fathers and asked for baptism.

"When they questioned her why she wanted to be a Christian, she replied that when she was very young, she heard her parents tell of the coming to that country, of a man who was vested in the same habit that the missionaries wore. This man had not entered the land on foot but came flying; and that he told them the same that the missionaries were now preaching; and that remembering this she was moved to become a Christian Not putting any credit in what the old woman related, the Fathers sought information on the subject from the neophytes. They all unanimously replied that thus they had heard it said from their ancestors, and that this tradition was general and handed down from parents to children.

"When I heard this story from the Fathers," continues Fr. Palou, "I immediately remembered the letter in the year 1631 the venerable Mother, Sister Mary of Jesus de Argreda, wrote to the missionaries engaged in the spiritual conquest of New Mexico, in which letter, among other things, she told them that our Father St. Francis brought to these nations of the North two Religious of his order to preach the faith of Jesus Christ (which missionaries were not Spaniards), and that after affecting many conversions, they suffered martyrdom. After computing the time of their visit. I judged that perhaps it might have been one of these Religious of whom the neophyte Agueda spoke."

FR. PALOU'S STORY

There is Fr. Palou's story and it would appear that with the Indians of San Antonio more than a century and a half ago there passed an interesting bit of California history that never can be checked.

"The fact," says Fr. Englehardt, "that the Indians of San Antonio Mission district manifested such eagerness to learn more about Christianity, and their extraordinary willingness to help the misssionaries in every way, lends a good deal of plausibility to the story of the woman and of her people."

Surrounded by friendly Indians, San Antonio grew apace and before his death Fr. Serra, in 1784, had the pleasure of counting 1804 neophytes at this mission, realization of the hope he had expressed in his sermon on the day of its founding that there would be a large settlement of

HIGH SCHOOL REUNION PLANS MADE FOR 4TH

Class representatives of Nevada City high school are asked by Mrs. Belle Douglass to be present at a meeting tonight at the high school, to formulate plans for the reunion of Nevada City high school alumni, to be held on July Fourth in conjunction with Nevada City's celebration. It is tentatively planned to have the reunion right after the par ade on Saturday, at the old auto park, owned by the P. G. & E. on Coyote street.

ROSEVILLE TRIP MADE BY WHISKERETTES & INOS

The Whiskerino and Whiskerette delegation which went to Roseville from Grass Valley and Nevada City Wednesday seemed to enjoy the visit and Roseville was most hospitable to them. About 25 went down from Nevada City and Grass Valley. Miss Ruby Miller, Chief Whiskerette spoke briefly over the microphone and she also presented the queen contestants.

Ted Janis also spoke from the platform and presented several people from the twin cities. Tony Casci sang beautifully and was given almost an ovation, Erik Anderson was well received in his two song numbers. Also Mrs. Alice Swayze of North San Juan who sang two numbers and an encore. This was Mrs. Swayze's first appearance on a whiskerino program and she nearly "stole the show."

Roseville's talent presented several fine acts which were encored to the echo, Senator Seawell acted as master of ceremonies for the evening and the Nevada City, Grass Valley section was brought to the mike by Christian Andersen.

Mr. A. D. Moody, printer on the Aberdeen World, Aberdeen, Washington, is spending part of his vacation visiting Mr. Wayne Sessions of Grass Valley. Mr. Moody with family members attended the San Diego fair, driving down the coast route. He drove to Nevada Cty today and called at the Nugget office.

Two men have cleaned out and straightened up over a 100 foot ditch in the "burnt district" recently purchased by Mr. Isador Cheim of Marysville, in the last three days. Several truck loads of three foot cement pipe was hauled from Yuba City and laid in the drain.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Dolan expect Mr. Dolan's niece, Mrs. Ollie Cullen and children, Jean and Jerry of San Francisco to arrive Saturday to spend their vacation with them.

PRERARATIONS MADE TO REMODEL SCHOOL

The desks in the third, fifth, seventh and eighth grade rooms, and first and second grade rooms of Miss Lois Shaw, in the old Washington grammar school building, are being removed making preparations for dismanteling that section of the big structure in the near future. A part of the east side of the old school house will have to be torn down in order to make room for a portion of the new one. Mr. Joe O'Neill, janitor, is assisting in the work of removing desks.

The studding is practically complete on the auditorium and preparations are being made to pour concrete in the forms on the east end of the new school house.

Farmers Fear Taxation After Federal Spending

Chicago, Ill.—Fears of thousands of farmers that excessive spending of the Roosevelt administration will tax them out of private ownership of property were described in a statement of Dr. E. V. Wilcox of Washington, secretary of the Farmer's Independent Council. The statement was issued from Council headquarters here.

"We are assured that the rich will pay for this spending jamboree," the statement read. "Yet official statistics show that the total income of those whose incomes are over $5,000 would keep the wheels of government going about 50 days at the present breakneck speed. So we, the less prosperous rank and file, must serve as the beasts of burden for the other 315 days of the year.

"Whether the administration in its present frame of mind intends to tax all farm property out of private ownership and make farmers mere wards of the government, as in Russia, can only be surmised. But this terrifying thought is causing genuine concern through the farm belts."

Mr. Russell B. Farley, board of equalization agent of this district, went to the Truckee and Lake Tahoe section Saturday. He was home for a time Monday returning to spend the remainder of the week at Lake Tahoe where many summer resorts are opening for the season.

This property employs 300 men and is the largest operating in the Nevada City district.

STORY OF MISSION SAN ANTONIO DE PADUE

Christians there with the aid of God and San Antonio.

Four months after the founding of the mission, Captain Pedro Fages, who did not approve of the missionaries, took away from San Antonio the military guard. Fr. Serra decided to go to Mexico and personally lay before Viceroy Antonio Maria Bucareli a protest against the growing opposition to his work on the part of Fages. The Viceroy sent word that military interference must cease.

The padres at San Antonio pushed building operations from the start. During the year 1776 the church was roofed with mortar and tiles and a street lined with adobe dwellings for the Indians was completed. Store rooms, barracks, warehouses and shops were erected and irrigation ditches to carry water to the field from San Antonio river were dug. In 1779 a building 133 feet long for the church and sacristy was started and finished the following year. Old records reveal steady progress in building through the years. In 1813 the new church was completed and long before that a water power mill had been erected. The Indian community grew steadily. Wells were dug, a reservoir and aqueduct built. Heavy rains fells in San Antonio district in 1825, causing the collapse of a number of structures, but these were replaced by larger and stronger buildings.

TROUBLES OF MISSION

With the arrival in 1825 of Governor Echeandia troubles began for San Antonio as it did with the other missions. While other missions were stagnating under political rule in 1827, Fathers Juan Bautista Sancho and Pedro Cabot continued building at San Antonio against heavy odds. The last official report from the mission was written by Father Cabot December 31, 1832.

Through successive Mexican administrations, San Antonio struggled along, burdened by excessive demands for food, clothing and money made and enforced by the military. The politicos made haste to seize the property of San Antonio and on November 12. 1834, Manuel Crespo arrived there as commissioner. Dis orders followed, the Indians became addicted to liquor furnished by unscrupulous politicos and many scattered to their haunts in the mountains. Governor Figueroa finally was compelled to discharge Crespo and Jose M. Ramirez succeeded him.

In December 31, 1835, Fr. Mercado, reporting on conditions at the once happy and prosperous Mission San Antonio wrote: "So numerous are the Indians who wander about as fugitives or as vagabonds that one cannot prudently make an estimate" Only a few years before, these natives had been happy and industrious under the regime of the padres."

Thousands of head of cattle, sheep, and horses had disappeared and the fields were uncultivated. In May, 1945, when Governor Pio Pico ordered the sale of the missions, San Antonio had been looted to such an extent that no one would bid for it. The following year came American occupation and Pico's expulsion. Mission San Antonio was restored to the Catholic church by President Lincoln on May 31, 1862.

death, the mission was deserted and vandals and settlers gradually dismanteled it, taking away the tiles on the roofs of the buildings and finally stealing timbers from the various structures. Patriotic citizens in San Francisco became incensed at this wanton destruction and in 1903 led by Joseph R. Knowland of Oakland, then State Senator and later Congressman, organized the California Historic Landmarks League. As president of the league and also head of the Native Sons and Daughters of the Galden West, Knowland travelled throughout the state urging the raising of a Restoration Fund.

Reporting to the Grand Parlor of the Native Sons in 1903, the Historic Landmarks Committee wrote:

"Mission San Antonio de Padua, in Monterey county, is in a deplorable state of ruin. The roof of the once imposing chapel has fallen, and the walls of adobe, now unprotected are year by year being leveled by the merciless elements. The beautiful arches are becoming ruined heaps, and the valuable tiles are disappearing. No Californian can view these picturesque ruins, covering several acres, and fail to become an enthusiastic advocate of mission restoration.

On June 19, 194, the Historic Landmark League held a meeting at San Antonio attended by church dignitaries and many persons interested in restoring the old mission. Fr. Zephyrin Englehardt of Santa Barbara Mission, was the celebrant of the holy mass. He was the first Franciscan to celebrate holy mass on the spot since the departure of the last resident Franciscan padre sixty years before.

With contributions raised by the Native Sons and Native Daughters, restoration work was started, but had to be discontinued owing to lack of money. A new fund was raised, but the earthquake of April 18, 1906, that wrought such destruction in San Francisco, Santa Rosa, Palo Alto and other cities hit Mission San Antonio also, and did much damage. Discouraged, but still determined to save something of the ancient mission, the Native Sons again set about restoration work, applying themselves intermittently to the task and whenever funds were available up to 1911

Today there is not much left of San Antonio. It's ruins, a tower in which still hangs the mission bell, are a tragic reminder of the historic past, of the romantic period of the Franciscan padres in California.

STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE FILLS ANY POSITION

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25.—A highly departmentalized service "that can fill any position, from office boy to technician or executive," was announced today by Roy S. Stockton, director of the California State Employment Service, as the organization prepared to enter its second year as an affiliate of the nationwide United States Employment Service.

"To facilitate speedy, efficient referrals to job opportunities in business and industry, the service established departmental breakdowns which include divisions for professional, technical, clerical, commercial, industrial, institutional, domestic and personal service and agricultural applicants," Stockton said.

"Competent, trained personnel is in each division The service has expanded so far as to include vocational counselling and guidance, expert attention to applicants of below par skill and active cooperation with state schools for the training of the handicapped.

"There has been an impression that the state employment service, which is operated without cost to applicant or employer, served only agricultural and and industrial needs. But daily, scores of so-called "white collar" people are being placed by our offices. Engineers, draftsmen, sales persons, clerical workers, of both sexes, find their way to private employment through the California State Employment Service constantly.

"The service belongs to the public—applicant and employer alike. The 23 branches and affiliates in the state invite inspection and use of their facilities.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY PASSES 33D BIRTHDAY

The Ford Motor Company passed its 33rd birthday last week. In observance of the event, William J. Cameron, Ford's voice on the air, called attention to pertinent facts about the operation of big business and the progress of the Ford Motor Company since its humble beginnings in 1903.

"In 33 years the company has exchanged 24,500,000 automobiles and other products for $12,951,338,028", Cameron said. "It has paid out $12,109,321,884 for materials, labor and taxes, leaving $842,016,144. Deducting from this the always current obligation of $60,000,000 for commitments made, and wages due, there remains $782,016,144 as the so-called profit for the work of 33 years."

Reducing this to handier figures Cameron pointed out that the average profit for each car over 33 years has been only $20. Each Ford purchaser has contributed slightly less than 66 cents a year to the Ford Motor Company profit in this time.

Critics of profits of big business, which aggregately seem very large, always fail to see the point that the mapor profits is in the article produced, and in legitimate exchange the user's profit is always bigger than the maker's, declared Cameron.

Great as the values are that have flowed toward the Ford Motor Company during these years, immensely greater values have flowed from it, it was said. It is seen from the observation of 33 years that 94 per cent of the money that came into th Ford Motor company immediately went out again as money, and much of the other 6 per cent went into improvements and economies for the public benefit.

"But it is in the creation of wealth that the Ford Motor Company does a great public service," continued Cameron. "For each 100 per cent of raw or unfinished material values that come into our factaries 150 to 300 per cent in material values go out again. This is the way true wealth is created."

Thru the Knot Hole

A Glimpse of Building Activity

Vol. 1. JUNE 26, 1936. No. 33.

Colley's Candy Store has been improved by a new counter finished in front with green Bestile and a very fine pattern of linoleum on top. This Bestile installation was made by Contractor Robert Steger.

We do not know of anything of more interest than watching a new home or other structure grow from the ground up and the interest is evidently general judging by the bystanders on many construction jobs.

Redwood V Joint finish in the main rooms and the same pattern in white pine with Douglas Fir Panels upstairs is the interior scheme of the new home being constructed by Mr. Johns for Mr. and Mrs. Billick at the end of Grove street.

Time for painting is surely here now with the warm drying weather at hand. We will have an announcement of great interest to the entire community regarding paint in a few days.

Watch the papers for the news.

Did you know that you can get a fair grade of dimension lumber that will answer for many purposes for as low as $25.00 per thousand feet. Of course the better grades are specified on many structures and are also stocked by us in quantities.

Contractor John Richards is applying the finish in the new house being built by Mr. and Mrs. Kjorlie on Piety Hill. 100% Palco Bark insulation is a feature of this house that is not duplicated in any house so far as we know.

"Auntie," asked little Jane, "why do you put powder on your face?"

"To make me pretty, my dear."

"Auntie," suggested Jane, after thinking a moment, "are you sure you're using the right kind of powder?"

Col. Knox Is Energetic Foe of Administration

Chicago, Ill.—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper publisher nominated as Gov. Alf M. Landon's running mate on the Republican ticket in the November elections, is no exception to the unity of purpose which has characterized the Republican convention in Cleveland and the campaign itself.

Determined to campaign vigorously as a candidate for the vice-presidency, Col. Knox wired Gov. Landon: "I gladly place myself under your orders and will undertake to discharge every assignment you give me with all the vigor and ability I possess. We go forward to victory."

Deficit in Terms of Gold

Washington, D. C.—The accumulated deficit of the Roosevelt administration is a sum equal to more than the value of all the gold in the United States and more than half the value of all the known gold in the world.

Record Federal Spending

Washington, D. C.—Up to May, 1936, the Roosevelt administration had spent $22,541,245,376. This sum is over 1¼ billions more than the entire national debt at the time President Roosevelt took office.

Payrollers Write Book; Ickes Collects Royalties

Washington.—"Back to Work," a book published about a year ago as the work of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, and upon which Ickes collects the royalties, was really written by press agents for the PWA, working on federal government time and paid with the taxpayers' money, it was revealed here in connection with a suit involving the constitutionality of PWA.

At the suggestion of Clark Foreman, Rosenwald foundation employee who planned the book, Ickes imported a young writer, Michael Ross, from England, to write the story of "recovery" in America. He went on the PWA payroll at $6,000 a year. Ross' efforts were then re-written by Jonathan Latimer, also on the federal payroll. Parts of the book were written by K. Sewell Wingfield, assistant director of the power division of PWA, and Michael Straus and David Wolfsohn of the PWA publicity staff.
